SCOTUS ruled on NY selectively banning religious services whil other activities were permitted. This is just a blanked ban on everything. Even if scotus would rule against, lawsuits would need to make their way through CA courts with multiple losses and appeals. We would see at least a few weeks before stuck down

They banned outdoor rec in the initial lockdown. Many countries have done it as well. Ultimately comes down to enforcement and if people will comply. There is a mask mandate in CA right now anytime you are outside your home. I was out for a run yesterday and 70% of people in park and on trail didn't have a mask

Yes it is pretty much proven transmission happens indoors over prolonged periods without masks. But you are assuming government policy is logical. LA just banned outdoor dining again and when asked what info they had that outdoor dining was driving cases, they admitted they had none.

Why your countries GDP is relevant:
You're poor, your mother is poor. You mother had to sell her pussy to survive. In your country, she can earn an extra 50 US cents for a non condom BJ, one US dollar for bareback full service, and another dollar for allowing the John to cum in her pussy. The ramifications of this is your conception, birth and posting of this worthless drivel 15 years later spreading your absolute idiocy over the internet for the rest of the world to see.

Seriously, go look up sheriff reports of how many people surrendered weapons or magazines made illegal (not just in CA). Oftentimes compliance isn't just low, but literally zero.

It really is, but you are seeing the power of the normie/NPC. As long as there are enough normies/NPCs who will go along with media narratives, TPTB can continue being lawless while the masses still think rule of law exists.
